Low Cost of Lake Harrisburg Brought Out at Mattoon

THIS SHOULD BE a feather in our hat.

Rob Roy Brown was telling me that Harrisburg has entered a fight at Mattoon.

Up in the central Illinois city, they're waging a pre-referendum campaign on the merits of building a city lake. That means there are proponents and opponents.

It seems that the opponents of the lake say that the price is far too high, and cite the figures of building Lake Harrisburg as a low price for which a lake can be built.

Brown received a call asking if it were true that Harrisburg built a lake at such a low cost and Atty. D. F. Rumsey, who was the lake project attorney, has received a letter from Mattoon lake advocates asking the same question: Is it really true you built your lake at the figures quoted by the opponents?

The opponents have the correct figures, too.

STRANGE THINGS are happening in the east part of town. The Mayberry children have bantam chickens. One mother hen hatched six baby chicks and after four weeks of mothering them left the babes on their own to scratch for themselves.

But did they have to use their tiny feet for scratching?

No.

The rooster took over, scratching up worms and insects and calling for the baby chickens to come and eat them.

When it rains the rooster calls them to cover under his wings, and he takes them to roost at night.

When he comes out of the chicken house in the morning he crows, then takes off with his family, and reports are it is really amazing to see him strut with the babies. The children call him Mother Rooster.

REV. GLEN DAUGHERTY, pastor of the First Christian church of Harrisburg, will be the senate chaplain of the Illinois General Assembly during the week of June 20.

COMFORT DEPT.: Sunshine Magazine points out that the records are full of achievements by persons who have reached their later years.

Michalangelo painted the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel on his back, on a scaffold, at near 90.

George Santayana said at 82: "I have never been happier in my life than right now."

Daniel Auber wrote his "Dream of Love" in his 80's and said, "I am not 80. I am four times 20."

At 88 John Wesley preached every day.

Tennyson published "Crossing the Bar" at 83.

Booth Tarkington wrote 16 novels after 60—some of them when he was almost totally blind.

Faderewski at 79 played the piano superbly.

Of Benjamin Franklin, Walter B. Pitkin said: "Men have forgotten the first half of his life. The world will never forget the second." Franklin went to France in the service of his country at 78, and wrote his autobiography at 80.

Asks Court Writ; Seeks Liquor Store at Raleigh

Truman Cantrell seeks action on an application to open a package liquor store in the village of Raleigh in a petition for writ of mandamus on file in circuit court.

The action, directed at Fred Doss, president of the Raleigh village board of trustees and liquor control commissioner of the village.

The petition, filed for Cantrell by Atty. Scerial Thompson, declares that in 1941 a village ordinance was passed which referred to the licensing of retail liquor stores and contends that this ordinance, which is in the custody of the village clerk has not been rescinded.

On May 2, 1955, it says, Cantrell filed with Doss an application for a Class E license to operate a package store and deposited the $500 license fee along with $1,000 bond.

Dodd, the petition says, refused to act on the application and Cantrell asks the court for a writ of mandamus commanding Dodd to act on the application and set an early date for the court to receive proof of the amount of damages Cantrell has sustained.

Peron Promises Fair Trial For Revolters

Reports Say 156 Killed, 896 Hurt; Six Churches Burned

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—President Juan D. Peron of Argentina today promised a fair trial to those who took part in Thursday's abortive revolt which cost 156 lives and which led to a retaliatory wave of arson against Roman Catholic churches.

Peron, who Thursday accused dissident elements within the navy for the revolt, also linked it today with the government campaign against the church.

He said the church-state relationship must be settled by elections and he added:

"Yesterday's example should awaken the conscience of Catholics so that they too may await the elections."

Report 156 Dead

Dispatches from Buenos Aires said that six churches and one basilica were fired in the heart of Buenos Aires where the heaviest fighting took place in the attempt to overthrow the Peron government. The residence of Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello also was reported burned.

One dispatch said the Curia was "destroyed." The Curia includes the cardinal's residence and the office buildings which are the center of church activities in Argentina.

Reports reaching here through the heavy Argentine censorship said 156 persons were killed in the revolt, 96 persons critically injured and about 800 persons less severely injured. Most of the victims died in the planes bombed and strafed the capital.

The sprawling Argentine capital with a population of 3-million was reported paralyzed with all shops and businesses closed and transportation at a standstill. Heavily armed government forces sealed off Buenos Aires from the rest of the nation.

State of Siege

Peron declared the nation in a state of siege and it was believed martial law might be proclaimed.

The nation has been in a "state of internal war" since 1951 when Peron put down an army-navy revolt led by Gen. Benjamin Menendez. Then, too, the chief plotters were naval officers.

The pro-government General Confederation of Labor (CGT) called a general strike of mourning to last until midnight. Many armed members of the CGT swarmed to the center of Buenos Aires Thursday to help the government.

A spokesman for the CGT urged its 6-million members throughout the nation to stay home today and remain calm.

Argentine rebels reaching Uruguay said officers of the three armed services planned the revolt for three years and had seized on the turmoil created by Peron's campaign against the church to rise against the government.

They said weather caused it to fail. Fog shrouded the center of the city when they tried to bomb the government into submission and a sudden storm on the River La Plata halted the landing of an amphibious force of marines.

The army remained loyal to the government, and prompt counterattacks crushed the revolt.

Senate Approves

Draft Extension

For Four Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate approved a four-year extension of the draft Thursday night and a final effort was planned today to salvage a related military measure—the administration's compulsory reserve bill.

The draft law extension cleared by voice vote after brief debate.

The Senate also approved a separate bill extending the special doctor draft for two years.

Both measures now go to the House. The House already has approved extension of the regular draft but must consider two amendments added by the Senate.

The doctor draft has been held up by the House Rules Committee as a result of objections by medical groups.

The reserve bill has been stalled in the House as a result of a dispute over segregation in the National Guard.

Elijah Reynolds, 85, Dies at Eddyville

The body now lies in state at the residence. The funeral will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Eddyville Methodist church. Rev. Gene Nolen of Carrier Mills, assisted by Rev. Elmer Tise of Godolconda, will officiate, and burial will be in the Eddyville cemetery.

Molotov Surprises Chicago With Whirlwind Tour During Five-Hour Stopover

CHICAGO (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rolled across the Midwest Plains in a special Pullman car today, leaving behind him a slightly shaken Chicago and a group of angry demonstrators at Omaha.

The stocky diplomat went on a surprise whirlwind tour of Chicago during a five-hour stopover late Thursday and before his train pulled out he had:

Caused the worst traffic jam on Lake Shore Drive in years.

Done what not even the bravest Chicagoans would dare attempt—walk across Lake Shore Drive in defiance of speeding rush hour traffic.

Flustered U. S. Steel officials who didn't know whether the distinguished Communist would be allowed to tour the company's huge South Side plant.

Holds Running Interview along the lake shore with a Russian-speaking reporter, giving his opinion on the smell of Chicago's stockyards, Molotov cocktails, and the nationwide civil defense alert.

Molotov caused an uproar of a different sort when his train rolled into Omaha, early today.

From 60 to 70 displaced persons from Lithuania and Latvia were waiting in the pre-dawn darkness carrying placards reading "Molotov go to hell instead of to San Francisco" and "Communism soaked with blood of Lithuanians."

Molotov and his party of diplomats, bound for the United Nations meeting at San Francisco, apparently were sleeping off their Chicago visit. They didn't make an appearance, but a few Russian bodyguards peeked from the darkened windows.

Hard to Believe

Back in Chicago, thousands of persons had got a glimpse of the famed Soviet minister, but some of them still found it hard to believe.

A steel mill worker, when told that it was indeed Molotov, said "Aw, go on. He wouldn't be riding in a Cadillac, would he?"

Another Chicagoan, when told Molotov was roaming the city, said "It gives me the shivers."

Molotov threw the Chicago Police Department into a mild tizzy when he suddenly announced plans to tour the Windy City.

10th Anniversary Meeting of UN To Begin Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco made final preparations today for the 10th anniversary meeting of the United Nations, with excitement over the historic conference mounting by the hour.

Leading diplomats from throughout the world were converging by train, plane and ship on this city by the Golden Gate where the U. N. was born in 1945.

Several of the early arrivals agreed that the seven-day conference, which opens in the War Memorial Opera House Monday, would be more than a "birthday party."

Dr. Eelco Van Kleffens, president of the General Assembly who will preside over the sessions, said he expected "much constructive work" would be accomplished here next week.

Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanon's ambassador to the U. S., was another early arrival who predicted the Big Four ministers could accomplish much in preparation for the "summit" meeting among the United States, Britain, France and Russia at Geneva, Switzerland, next month.

Malik said he considered the meetings here a "milestone of history" and he hoped that one result of the conference would be an easing of the deadlock over admission of new members to the U. N., including Red China.

Russia's delegation, headed by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, was enroute across the United States by train and due to arrive here early Saturday.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Minister Harold MacMillan, French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and India's roving ambassador V. K. Krishna Menon all are scheduled to arrive Sunday.

President Eisenhower will fly here Sunday night for his opening address Monday. Former President Truman will speak at the conference later in the week.

Gasoline Price War Spreads to Marion

A price war that started in Harrisburg more than a year ago has spread to Williamson county. This morning most service stations sold regular gasoline for 22.9 cents per gallon. Premium grade gas was 4 cents higher.

The diplomat had learned of the long stopover before his train could carry him and his party of 60 on to the United Nations meeting at San Francisco. So he called for tourist literature about Chicago and when he arrived here, the Russians hired three Cadillacs from the exclusive Chicago Club.

The motorcade took off for the teeming South Side, trailed by a police squad car with its siren screaming. With Molotov were Georgi N. Zorobin, Russian ambassador to the United States, and about 13 body guards.

In quick order, the Russians roared past Soldier Field, the Museum of Natural History, and the Museum of Science and History. Then Molotov passed up a chance to inspect the University of Chicago, birthplace of the atomic age, in favor of a look at Chicago's famed and often smelly stockyards.

Molotov said he found the stockyards smell "not unpleasant" and when queried about Wednesday's civil defense alert, when an enemy hydrogen bomb attack was simulated, retorted "In Moscow we live in peace."

Illinois VFW Votes Support Of Korea Bonus

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—A state-paid Korean War veterans bonus support of Veterans of Foreign Wars attending the 36th annual Illinois encampment here.

About 10,000 delegates from state posts, auxiliaries and other units converged here Thursday for the opening session. The encampment ends Sunday.

Rep. Clyde Choate (D-Anna), chief sponsor of the Korean bonus bill, was to speak to the veterans today. The bill calls for payments to Korean veterans of $15 per month for overseas service and $10 per month for domestic service.

A resolution approved Thursday urged Gov. William G. Stratton to support the bonus.

Delegates also approved a resolution which criticized the Hoover commission proposals for a federal health and medical act, calling them "prejudicial and inimical" to veterans.

The resolution said two-thirds of living veterans would be denied consideration for hospitalization under the Hoover commission plan.

Action also was demanded to provide greater pension benefits for World War I veterans and for widows and orphans of all soldiers.

An election of officers is scheduled for Sunday, when a new commander will be named to succeed Raymond W. Schild, Chicago.

Normally the senior vice commander, now Roy L. Lechner, (Carroll), becomes commander. His move was reported underway to elect Junior Vice Commander John Englander, Chicago.

Move to Cripple Dixon-Yates Project Defeated

By United Press

Democratic hopes of using Congress' control of government purse strings to cripple the administration-backed Dixon-Yates power project appeared doomed to failure today.

The House Thursday decisively rejected the Democratic drive to divert funds for the private power project to the government-owned Tennessee Valley Authority, thus giving President Eisenhower a thumping legislative victory.

Senate Dixon-Yates opponents planned to continue the fight despite the House action but conceded their chances of winning are slim.

The House gave tacit approval to Dixon-Yates in passing a $1,372,122,800 appropriations bill to operate TVA, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Reclamation Bureau, Bonneville Power and the Southwestern and Southwestern Power Administrations in the new fiscal year starting July 1.

The Dixon-Yates issue came to a vote on a motion to reverse an appropriation committee decision to apply a $6,500,000 fund toward building a new TVA power plant near Memphis, Tenn. The fund originally had been recommended by the administration to finance a power line which would link the Dixon-Yates project to the TVA system.

The motion carried 198 to 169. Republicans said the administration is free, if the Senate also approves, to go ahead with the line which will put Dixon-Yates into business as a private plant supplementing the TVA system.

House Approves Longer Length Of Trailer-Trucks

Administration-Supported Measure Moves to Senate

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A bill to increase the legal maximum length of trailer-trucks from 45 feet to 50 feet moved to the Senate today with House approval.

The House passed the measure Thursday despite warnings from Rep. Richard Stengel (D-Rock Island) that it could mean Illinois will be cut off from federal highway aid.

Stengel said the loss of federal aid could also result from another bill passed to increase the over-load allowance for trucks from 350 pounds on each axle to 5 per cent of the maximum weight, with a limit of 1,000 pounds.

The same bill would also repeal the act by which vehicle operators' licenses are suspended when they have 10 or more violations.

Stengel said a highway bill introduced in the U. S. Senate by Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) provides that federal aid be cut off from any state which increases its load and length limitations after May 1, 1955.

He said the two bills passed could cost Illinois millions of dollars and that it was a "shame" that administration leaders were supporting the bills.

Majority Leader John W. Lewis Jr. (R-Marshall) said the weight allowance increase would only bring Illinois into line with 28 states and that the length increase was needed for new type automobile carriers.

Other bills passed by the House and sent to the Senate would:

Permit downstate cities to establish, with referendum approval, municipally owned local transportation systems, such as the Chicago Transit Authority, where there is no privately operated system.

Add deep freeze lockers to a bill banning the abandonment of ice boxes unless their doors have been removed and securely locked.

Reduce from 25 per cent to 10 per cent of the voters the number of signers needed on a petition for a referendum to abandon the commission form of government.

Provide for the regulation and registration of hypodermic needle and syringe sales under the Department of Public Health as a move against use by narcotics addicts.

Provide that plans for new public buildings contain specifications for heating the buildings by coal, oil, gas or electricity where those fuels are available. The bills also provide that before any contract is awarded, the relative costs of installation for each type of heating must be considered.

Sponsored by Rep. Bert Baker (D-Benton), the bills are aimed at improving the possibilities for using coal, thereby helping southern Illinois' coal industry.

But some senators still were ranked at accepting a House change of Senate districts.

"I don't know what principle means around here anymore," Sen. David Davis (R-Bloomington) said. "We would be fully justified in telling the House to mind its business while we take care of ours."

Other senators also criticized the House for breaking the unwritten agreement that each body

to leave Washington ahead of threatened bombs.

It also is possible, of course, that the food served up by the armed forces contingent here drove him as quickly as possible, even at the risk of a possible security breach, to a home-cooked meal.

He was due at the farm, anyway, for lunch or dinner tonight, but in the spirit of this "war game" his elapsed travel time, the distance and direction traveled to get there would have been withheld from publication.

The plan had been that the President would remain off-the-record, geographically at least, for the full period of this exercise which began with the warning wail of air raid sirens on Wednesday.

All this went by the boards when Mr. Eisenhower, the frequent critic of loose talkers in government, decided that dinner at home was worth the revealing information that trip provided.

The fact that Mrs. Eisenhower had visited there briefly with her aged mother and that the President had returned the courtesy within a very few hours was not the product of newspaper initiative. This information was volunteered by James C. Hagerty, the White House press secretary.

The incident served to illustrate anew that Americans in peacetime have no passion for security.

Other than him, there was no official explanation of why the President departed suddenly in later afternoon Thursday from pre-arranged plans and left, on a few minutes notice to his staff, to have dinner at the farm with his wife and mother-in-law who had lunched with him here only a few hours earlier.

The facility and speed with which the Eisenhowers exchanged visits by automobile flew in the face of governmental restriction designed to keep from potential enemies any knowledge as to the approximate whereabouts of emergency relocation sites for principal government officials and agencies if it should become necessary for them to leave Washington.

It is possible, of course, that this particular place wouldn't be used at all if the attack were a real one, but it also is a solid fact that lots of money has been spent to provide here the expensive communications equipment any President would need if he had

Legislative Reapportionment Measure Goes to Gov. Stratton

Measure Creates New Senate and House Districts

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The 69th General Assembly today has completed its first major chore, passage of a legislative reapportionment bill giving Illinois its first new legislative district since 1901.

Gov. William G. Stratton, who was the force behind the constitutional reapportionment amendment approved in the 1954 election, was expected to sign the bill into law when he returns from a brief weekend vacation.

The bill abolishes the present 51 Senate-House districts and creates 58 new Senate districts, based on near-equal area, and 59 new House districts, based on near-equal population.

The new mapping will give Cook County narrow control of the House and downstate control of the Senate. The House will have to be remapped again in 1963 and every 10 years thereafter under terms of the new constitutional article.

Accept Brydia Amendment

Final legislative action came on the bill when the House voted 133-0 and the Senate 37-5 Thursday to accept the House's Brydia amendment affecting three northwestern Illinois Senate districts.

The amendment by Rep. George S. Brydia (R—Prophetstown) creates Senate districts of Whiteside-Lee-DeKalb counties, Rock Island-Mercer-Henderson counties, and Knox-Warren counties.

Sen. Morris E. Muhleman (R-Rock Island) withdrew his opposing amendments "in the interests of harmony and to get this bill passed." Muhleman's alignment would have been Lee-DeKalb, Whiteside-Rock Island-Mercer, Henderson-Knox-Warren.

But some senators still were ranked at accepting a House change of Senate districts.

"I don't know what principle means around here anymore," Sen. David Davis (R-Bloomington) said. "We would be fully justified in telling the House to mind its business while we take care of ours."

Other senators also criticized the House for breaking the unwritten agreement that each body

to leave Washington ahead of threatened bombs.

The incident served to illustrate anew that Americans in peacetime have no passion for security.

Other bills passed by the Senate would:

Consolidate road districts for motor fuel tax allocations.

Set up commissions to study the coal mining industry and charitable trust laws.

Permit the sale of alcoholic beverages at airports.

Issues Plea for Passage of Reserve Bill

President Speaks From Secret Underground Pentagon

EMERGENCY U. S. NEWS CENTER (AP)—President Eisenhower ended the nation's civil defense exercise today with a plea for passage of the armed forces reserve bill now stalled in Congress.

The President spoke on a closed circuit radio channel from the secret underground Pentagon where he met with top government officials during "Operation Alert," a nationwide atomic survival test.

His remarks were recorded by radio networks for later broadcast to the public.

Mr. Eisenhower said every citizen and hamlet would be in the front lines if an attack occurred like the one simulated in this exercise.

Trained reserves would be needed to cope with such a situation, he said, adding that one reserve battalion at home would be worth several active divisions thousands of miles away.

In the exercise now concluded Mr. Eisenhower led 15,000 key federal officials and clerks to 31 secret relocation centers in a radius of 30 to 300 miles from "bombed out" Washington.

In all, 61 U. S. cities were hit by imaginary nuclear attack which in theory killed or wounded millions and left other millions homeless.

Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson reported that the exercise showed the nation is far from ready to cope with atomic assault.

But he said it disclosed "marked improvement" over the past, adding that estimates from the target cities indicate that four million lives were "saved" by mock mass evacuation.

Discussing the atomic war game in which more than 14 million persons were "killed" or "injured" and an additional 25 million left theoretically homeless, Mr. Eisenhower said every American should devoutly pray that such an attack never comes.

But, he added, until peace in the world is assured, "we should never let our guard down."

Defense Mobilizer Arthur M. Flemming said the nation is not prepared from a manpower standpoint to cope with an atomic attack. He backed the President's plea for the reserve measure. He said the best way to deal with international communism is "from a position of strength."

An attack like that pretended for Operation Alert should occur for the government would expect to ration money as well as food and spend millions on emergency aid for evacuees.

Probable rationing of money was mentioned by Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey. He said one of the problems his department worked on during the exercise was "how to get money out to the refugees."

Historic Event In Labor

Editorial By Bruce Blossat
The agreement reached between the Ford Motor Company and the United Automobile Workers is unquestionably an historic settlement.
For all practical purposes it accepts the principle of the guaranteed annual wage.

First off, the public reaction to this accord must be one of gratitude that a long and costly strike was averted. Both sides seemed earnestly bent on reaching a settlement rather than solidifying their differences. And, thankfully, the negotiations were largely free of the loud recriminations which too often have marked such disputes in the past.

As for the agreement itself, it represents a genuine compromise.
The UAW originally sought a plan that would assure workers their full wage throughout the year. The company's initial proposal did not contain any concession to the guaranteed principle.

Later the union reduced its demands to a request for a guarantee that would give the workers 80 per cent of their regular wage during lay-off periods.

Ford responded with a new plan of its own. It proposed to create a $5 million dollar reserve fund.
Out of this, payments would be made to workers over a period of 26 weeks of idleness. In combination with existing unemployment compensation, these would amount to from 60 to 65 per cent of their normal take-home pay.

At first the union rejected this plan. But after some haggling over details, especially of its application to different regions, the UAW accepted it and that became the basis of the settlement.

Whether you call it a partially guaranteed annual wage or simply a supplement to unemployment benefits doesn't really matter. In fact it would seem to be both. The important thing is union and company agree on wider responsibility for the worker in times of stress.

It will now be widely assumed that this accord will set a pattern not only for the motor industry but for many other industries as well. Likely this will be so. But it should be apparent that the cost of such plans will make them altogether too burdensome for some industries, particularly those now suffering some distress, like coal and textiles.

Thus, insofar as this new principle of protection is applied, it would seem to presage the growth of a privileged worker class in the large industries with healthy reserves.

There is another aspect to this matter. A guaranteed annual wage, or even a partial one, tends to introduce new rigidity into the industrial system. Workers enjoying the privilege will be slow to change jobs. Employers, thinking of the burden, will hesitate a bit before hiring new people. The mobility and flexibility which have long been features of the American economy will be somewhat diminished.

Security for the worker is obviously a desirable goal. But as we move toward it we must be extremely careful not to eliminate the risk-taking, the pliability, the spirit of adventure that have made our economy so continuously rich in promise.

Our steady upward advance to new levels of economic accomplishment has always been our ultimate guarantee of security.

her plans to House GOP Leader
Joe Martin at length the other day.
The vivacious Mrs. Luce, who is doing a good job in Italy of late, rushed home from Rome ostensibly to report on the Italian government's alarming left-wing swing.
While here, however, she dropped in to see ex-Speaker Joe Martin, who used to give her fatherly advice when she was in Congress.

Mrs. Luce had let it be known during the 1952 Republican convention that she was available for the vice presidency. But she entered the race so late that few politicians took her seriously. This time, she told Martin, she intends to start early.

She argued that the Republican party needs a woman on the ticket to attract women voters. She made it clear, in any case, that she could be a candidate in 1956 for the vice-presidential nomination. It was taken for granted that her husband's powerful magazines, Time,
Life and Fortune, would support her.

Joe Martin is an earthy, practical politician, not easily dazzled by glamour. He also has tremendous influence inside Republican circles. It is newsworthy, therefore, that he agreed a lady vice president might have voter appeal.
He also promised to do what he could to help Mrs. Luce.

Though their conversation was supposed to be secret, word of it leaked to the GOP National committee. Most party leaders let it be known privately that they couldn't see Mrs. Luce as vice president. If any woman should get the nomination, they argued,
it should be Sen. Margaret Chase
Smith of Maine.

This could lead to a hot convention fight next year between the two ladies if the Republican high command decides to go for a lady for second place. It might also lead to the nomination and election of a Catholic for vice president for the first time in history — Mrs.
Luce having been converted to the Catholic faith while a member of Congress.

Mrs. Luce's candidacy would also solve one of the problems tending to cause dissension in the Republican party — Vice President Nixon. A great many party leaders, among them the powerful Knight-Knowland contingent of California, are vigorously opposed to his renomination.

AIR FORCE CLASS
"Uncasy rests the head who tries to build an Air Force Academy." That is the commiseration being handed to the man at the head of the Air Force today — fast-talking, hard-working, big GOP money-raising, bridge-playing Harold Talbott.

For it looks as if Talbott would have to draw his Air Force academy plans all over again. Congressmen even intimate that the "West Point of the Air Force" won't be located at Colorado Springs after all — though this seems much less likely.

At any rate, Secretary Talbott has called a meeting for next Monday (June 20) to go into the whole thing and may well end in tearing up the architectural drawings of the institution which Frank Lloyd Wright has already dubbed
"Talbot's Aviary" and a "factory for birdmen."

Certain congressmen have not been so public about it, but in off-the-record meetings they have been just as vocal.
"It looks like a bunch of tepees pulled together," remarked Congressman Porter Hardy of Virginia
when he saw the proposed Air Force church, which looked like a cross between a many-peaked modern hangar and an Aztec temple.

"Maybe," remarked Congressman Eddie Hebert of Louisiana,
"it was designed by an accordion player."

"Okay," surrendered the secretary for air, "we'll change it."

That much has already been decided. However, more drastic changes are in the works, to be decided at the June 20 meeting.

TOO MUCH GLASS FOR BRASS
Drawings for the new West Point of the Air Force academy also features glass. Critics, and they include the masonry and brick lobbies which don't welcome the advent of glass in modern architecture, claim that the Lever building required $250,000 of special scaffolding to get the windows washed, plus the use of higher-paid scaffolding men rather than window washers.

Referring to Talbott's "glass aviary" Congressman Hebert, a member of the Armed Services committee, says:

"It would take all the window cleaners in New York to clean the glass architecture of the original design."

In addition, critics point out that the air-cooling bill for the academy would be terrific in Colorado's summertime 97-degree temperature, while the heating bill for Colorado's cold winters would be even more expensive—all as a result of too much glass.

Also, claim the critics, the aluminum exteriors vibrate badly.
AIR FOOTBALL??
So, there just doesn't seem to be anything good about the Air Force academy plans, according to critical members of the House Armed Services committee. That, however, isn't all. Here's the worst news for Secretary Talbott: The Air Force football team may suffer.

Air Force brass are worried over the possibility that rival teams won't come to Colorado Springs to play in the high Rocky Mountain altitudes. They wonder also who their many top football players can be seduced into the Air Force Academy in view of the altitude.
And what, after all, would a rival to Annapolis and West Point be like without a football team?

"Finally," says Congressman Hebert, "the taxpayers will have to shell out $165,000 a year every year, just for piping water over a mountain to supply the school."

This is what hard-working, bridge-playing, fast-talking, big GOP money-raising Harold Talbott faces when he reviews the bidding next Monday.

Miss Darlene Hill
Honored on Birthday

A birthday party was held Monday night in honor of the 16th birthday of Miss Darlene Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Hill.

Games were played and refreshments of cake and drinks were served to Linda Schwartz, Linda Braden, Delores Dunning, Myrna
Boatright, Marlene Dann, Jeanette
Dann, Bob Evans, Darrell Evans,
Jesse Earl Thompson, Don Puckett,
Jimmy Peyton, Robin Wathen,
John David Wathen, Jerry Abney,
Rev. and Mrs. Paul Dann, and Floyd Schwartz.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Riegel and children and Mr. and Mrs.
James Allen and daughter visited Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs.
Grant Riegel and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Kelley attended church in Johnston City Sunday morning. Rev. C. M. Weaver was the preacher.
Henry Thompson, serving in the U. S. Navy at Great Lakes, is spending a 15-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson. He is being transferred to West Virginia.

To add flavor and texture contrast to apple sauce, cut plain peach halves into quarters and mix them into the sauce just before serving. To make the combination even tastier, add a dash of cinnamon and nutmeg.

Furniture Market Preview Indicates Increased Use of Co-ordinated Pieces

CHICAGO (AP) — Furniture designers have decided that it takes a heap of convertibility to make a house a home these days.

A preview of the summer furniture markets opening Monday at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart indicated a big increase in co-ordinated pieces for use anywhere in the house.

A return to rounded contours and an emphasis on natural wood grains probably are the other most noticeable trends in the new furniture models that will be available at retail stores next fall.

Chest, shelf and table units that can be used separately, side by side or one on top of another, are now shown by almost all manufacturers.

Many of these pieces, as well as chairs and sofas, are "fourth dimensional"—finished on all sides for use in the middle of the room or as room dividers.

Upholstery covers that zip on and off, an increase in sofas that make into beds, detachable head boards that can be used as room dividers, tables that can be folded or used as desks, add further convertibility for space-conscious homemakers.

Modernized versions of early American, French and Italian provincial—with liberal Scandinavian and Oriental influences—are the most popular designs.

There is some Spanish design, while Queen Anne, Biedermeier and Louis XVI are influencing traditional lines.

A survey of manufacturers and designers also showed these other furniture trends:

Finishes: Emphasis on natural wood grains, even in colored pieces, with a rubbed-in sheen rather than a glossy finish.

Colors: Beige, brown, turquoise, pale green, copper and black in main items. All shades of blue (especially French, aqua and electric) gold, apricot, green, tangerine and copper for accent.

Rugs: Tweeds in all colors and weaves including synthetic fabrics and fibers. Fiber weaves increasing in popularity in low-priced bracket.

Aluminum utensils are pitted by strong salt solutions of moist food left standing. A preventive measure is to empty pans immediately after using them.

Missing Jewels Recovered in Hedy Lamarr Home

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — Hedy Lamarr had back today the $50,000 worth of jewelry that she reported had been stolen from her and caused her and all her household to take lie detector tests.

The climax of the jewelry theft from the home of the former movie actress and her husband, oil millionaire Howard Lee, came suddenly.

"You can say that the jewels were recovered on the premises at 5:30 p. m. yesterday," Lee told reporters. "Other than that we have nothing more to say at this time."

However, detective H. B. Short quoted Lee as saying that Miss Lamarr's seamstress, Alberta Pears, found the jewels in a bag on a shelf in the upstairs sewing room of the Lee home.

Short, who investigated when the jewels were reported stolen, said that Lee was asked if either he or Miss Lamarr had a suspect following the recovery. Short said they did not.

No Trip to Russia
Unless Soviets Free
Germans: Adenauer

NEW YORK — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told the Western Allies he will not go to Moscow unless the Russians promise to release German prisoners they still hold, authoritative diplomatic sources said today.

Adenauer was called into the strategy meeting of the Big Three to learn his views toward Russia's surprising bid to open diplomatic relations with Germany.

Adenauer, continuing a week of top level cold-war talks, met with the U. S., British and French foreign ministers at lunch.

Informants said Adenauer told the foreign ministers will set these three conditions before agreeing to meet the Russians:

1. Release of more than 9,000 German war prisoners still held in Russian camps would be announced during his Moscow visit.
2. No recognition of the East German Communist government by West Germany.
3. No recognition of the Oder-Neisse line as Germany's eastern frontier.

The sources said that in addition to discussing the Moscow invitation Adenauer conferred with the foreign ministers on prospects for next month's Big Four "at the summit" Geneva conference and stressed his desire that German reunification should be one of the top agenda topics.

Report Three U. S.
Assistant Attaches
Expelled by Russia

LONDON — Private advices received here today said three assistant U. S. military attaches have been expelled from Russia.

The reports received here said all three were declared persona non grata and left the Soviet capital about two weeks ago.

The three ousted Americans were identified as Lt. Col. John S. Benson, Capt. Walter Mule and Capt. William R. Stroud. All were Army men.

It was understood here that the incident was hushed up at the time on grounds the U. S. State Department felt publication would not be in the national interest.

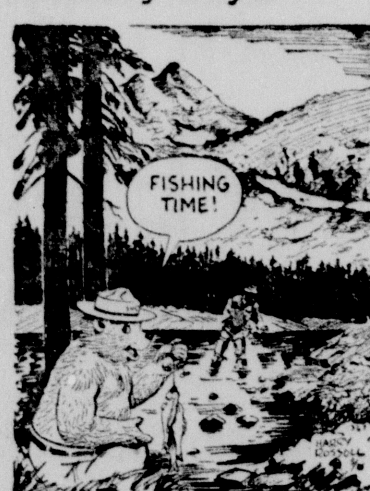

Reports received here said the Soviets also had withheld publication of the action in an apparent attempt to prevent the ouster becoming a public incident.

The cause of the Soviet action was not known here but was said to have stemmed from an incident in Moscow sometime in early May.

Find Body of Boy
After Search by 200

McGREGOR, Minn. — The body of 5-year-old Bobby Lawrence was found today in about 10 feet of water in Big Sandy Lake, ending a search by more than 200 persons. The boy disappeared Thursday morning.

The body was sighted from the air by a search plane near where the boy's father, Maynard Lawrence, 32, Scanlon, Minn., had docked his boat Thursday morning.

Lawrence left his son in the boat while he walked a short distance into the woods. When he returned the boy was missing.

Hottest-Selling Buick in History

No wonder you see so many '55 Buicks on the highways—they're rolling up bigger sales than ever before in history—capping the popularity that has already moved Buick into the top circle of America's best sellers.

$2312.88

Delivered locally!

THIS is a Buick—a 2-door, 6-passenger SPECIAL Sedan.

It packs a wallop 188-hp V8 engine under the hood—is carried on a strapping 122-inch wheelbase—rides with the luxury cushioning of all-coil springing, the solid steadiness of a full-length torque-tube drive, the extra safety and silence of tubeless tires.

It's big and brawny and road-steady and roomy—each seat cushion measures over five feet in width.

Yet this broad beauty—as the price we show here proves—delivers locally for just about the price of the well-known smaller cars—even below some models of those very same cars.

Buick Sales Are Soaring To New Best-Seller Highs
That, for sure, is one reason why Buick sales go higher and higher and higher. More and more people are finding that you can buy a Buick for the price of a smaller car, so more and more people are getting this bigger buy for their money.

They want the bigger package of sheer automobile for the money that they get in Buick—bigger in power thrill, in roomy comfort, in riding steadiness, in structural solidity.

They want the added prestige and pleasure of owning Buick styling and size—and the added safety and sureness of Buick roadability and handling ease.

They want, too, the spectacular performance and better gas mileage of Variable Pitch Dynaflo—easily yours at modest extra cost.

And they certainly want the choice Buick offers of a car in every price range, with each one the buy in its field—the low-price SPECIAL, the supremely-powered CENTURY, the extra-roomy SUPER, and the custom-built ROADMASTER.

Why don't you come in for a visit and see how much real automobile your money can buy here?

Pope Is Given Reports by Ousted Prelates

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII today heard with "deep tenderness and great interest" personal reports from the two prelates whose expulsion from Argentina resulted in the excommunication of President Juan D. Peron.

The 79-year-old Pontiff bestowed his blessings on the people of Argentina during the 85 minute audience.

Mrs. Manuel Tato, auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires, and Ramon Novoa were received by the Pope in his private library only a few hours after their arrival by plane from the Argentine capital.

The two prelates were expected to give the Pope first hand information on the critical church-state situation in the South American country.

The Pope is known to have followed the controversy closely. He visited Argentina in 1934 as cardinal legate representing Pope Pius XI at the Buenos Aires International Eucharistic Congress and speaks Spanish fluently.

Vatican sources said the Pope listened to the report from the prelates "with deep tenderness and great interest" and voiced his blessings for the Argentine people. A prelate close to the Consistorial Congregation which excommunicated Peron said the act involved only the treatment of the two monsignors and not relations between the Vatican and the Argentine state.

"The Vatican never takes the initiative in breaking off diplomatic relations, and the Vatican has not received any indication Peron has taken such initiative," he said.

Youth Aided in Job Hunt by Employment Office

The youth of our community are given special attention by the Illinois State Employment Service, Perry R. Moore, manager of the Harrisburg office, states, "In an effort to assist students who are taking the step from school to full-time employment, employment counseling (and testing) is generally provided to each youth registering for work at our office. This service is aimed at placing each new entrant into the labor market in a job for which he has the training, interest, and aptitudes."

Summer time workers — students who plan to return to school in the fall—are also helped to find employment for their vacation period. These applicants are usually placed in jobs as summer replacements or in jobs created by the seasonal need for additional workers. It is to the interest of employers in the area and the community itself to help its youth by using their services this summer wherever possible.

Permanent workers and summer replacements for jobs in offices, plants, homes, or on farms, can be secured by telephoning an order to the Harrisburg office of the Illinois State Employment Service. Mr. Moore states that 175 students have registered for regular full-time employment and applications have been taken for 20 students who are interested in obtaining summer time jobs.

Students at Bowdoin College between 1820-1830 included Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Nathaniel Hawthorne, and Franklin Pierce.

Select Squaw Valley As Site for 1960 Winter Olympics

PARIS (AP)—Squaw Valley, Calif., a winter resort on the Sierra Nevada range, today was selected as the site of the 1960 Olympic winter games after international Olympic Committee delegates questioned its eligibility in a day-long wrangle.

The selection of the California resort as the site for the winter competition completed the main tasks of the 50th IOC congress.

Thursday the delegates chose Rome as the site for the 1960 summer games. Tuesday they confirmed Melbourne, Australia, as the site for the 1956 summer games. The 1956 winter games will be held at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy.

Squaw Valley edged its strongest contender, Innsbruck, Austria, 32 to 30 on the second ballot after five hours of bitter wrangling between the delegates.

The other candidates for the winter games—St. Moritz in Switzerland and Garmisch-Partenkirchen in Germany—were eliminated on the first ballot.

30 Days of Silence On Foreign Policy, Recommended by Bowles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chester Bowles recommends a simple tonic for America's foreign policy — "30 days of absolute silence."

The former U. S. ambassador to India told the House Foreign Affairs Committee late Thursday that the worst fault of American officials is that they "talk too much."

The feeling among Asians, he observed seriously, is that Americans "demand too much gratitude" and "brag too much about everything they do."

"I think 30 days of absolute silence would take us a long way," he said.

Trucks Shuts Out Orioles, 8-0; Reds Beat Dodgers As Cubs Edge Giants, 2-1

By United Press
Virgil Trucks of the White Sox admits some of the old-time fire is gone from his fast ball but even so, he still has enough stuff to keep that pennant light gleaming in Manager Marty Marion's eye.

In the old days, Trucks used to average 10 to 12 strikeouts a game. But now at a more mellow 35, he leaves such feats to younger blood like Herb Score or Bob Turley.

So far this season, the Chicago right-hander has recorded only 36 strikeouts, a far cry from Score's 107 or Turley's 96. But Trucks is right up there with both in the vital won-lost department.

Even though he struck out only four batters Thursday night, Trucks registered his seventh victory of the season and his second shutout in a row in beating Baltimore, 8-0. The six-hit victory marked his fifth straight and kept the White Sox within two games of the pace-setting Yankees in the close American league race.

George Kell drove in four runs with three hits while Walt Dropp and Nellie Fox also slammed out three hits. Fox collected 11 hits in 16 times up during the four-game series with the Orioles.

Cleveland remained a game behind the White Sox and three games off the pace by defeating Washington, 8-5. Bob Lemon failed to go the distance for the ninth time in his last 10 starts but gained his ninth victory after yielding all 12 Washington hits in eight innings. Mike Garcia came in to pitch the ninth and gave up two hits before striking out Mickey Vernon for the final out. Bobby Avila and Larry Doby each collected three hits to lead a 15-hit attack.

Billy Klaus, who couldn't win a regular berth with either the Braves or the Giants, smashed a two-run homer in the last of the ninth off Johnny Sain to give the Red Sox a 7-6 triumph over the Athletics. Klaus' homer was one of four hits by Boston-Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen and Norm Zauchin also connecting for the circuit. Reliever Tom Hurd gained his first victory of the year.

Held scoreless by Frank Lary for eight innings, the Yankees erupted for all their runs in the ninth to nip the Tigers, 3-2. Yogi Berra's two-run homer and Elston Howard's pinch single with the bases full accounted for the Yankees' runs. Southpaw Tommy Byrne pitched a four-hitter and became the first Yankee hurler to go the distance after 15 in a row had failed.

Kluszewski Raps Two
Ted Kluszewski teed off for his 19th and 20th homers against the Dodgers and his second one of the game in the 10th inning to give the Redjacks a 6-5 decision. Until he delivered the home run ball to Jim Hughes had retired 14 batters in a row. Hershel Freeman gained the decision by relieving Art Fowler.

Nick's Win Only Kiwanis Game

By David Nelson
Nick's Cafe defeated the Auto Trimmers, 15-5, in the only Kiwanis league game played Thursday.

Nick's ran away from the Auto Trimmers by scoring one in the first, four in the second, two in the third, one in the fourth, four in the fifth and three in the seventh. The losers' pitchers allowed 15 runs on 13 hits and eight walks, while Henshaw, Nick's hurler, held the Auto Trimmers to five runs on five hits and struck out 12 batters.

The winners' hitting attack was led by Henshaw with four and Griffith and Baldwin with three safeties each. McDonald led the Auto Trimmers at bat with a double and single.

THE STORY: Jack Bristow, suffering from a bullet wound, seeks refuge in the apartment of Lucy Hamilton, secretary and girl friend of Private Detective Michael Shayne. He tells her not to call a doctor.

II

Jack Bristow was lying back with his head on the pillow and his eyes lightly closed. Short-cropped black hair clung to his well-shaped head in waves, and his mobile lips were slightly parted.

Lucy lifted the loose tail of shirt and undershirt to study the small wound. No more blood came from the bullet-hole, and the red fluid that had previously oozed out was beginning to clot.

She drew his clothing back over the bare flesh, thinking it best not to disturb him, and debating anew whether she should call a doctor at once or hope Shayne would come soon and make the decision for her.

When she turned her head she saw Jack's eyes wide open and fixed upon her unblinkingly. "Is Mike Shayne coming here . . . to-night?"

"I think so. If he doesn't come soon I can call him and . . ."

"Don't," Jack's teeth were set together hard and his voice was harsh. "From what you've told Arlene in letters, she guesses you're in love with the guy. That right?"

"I don't think that concerns you."

"I wouldn't be here if there was another soul in Miami I could have gone to."

Lucy said, "That's flattering."

She went into the kitchen and brought a glass of straight brandy.

"You wanted a drink?"

He took it from her and lifted the glass to his lips without lifting his head, spilling a few drops but coming as close to "tossing off a drink" as Lucy had ever seen accomplished.

He dropped the empty glass on the coverlet beside him and muttered: "I didn't mean anything personal. You've always been and still are the girl I like most. But I know all about Mike Shayne, see? Just the kind of dick he is."

"What kind of dick," asked Lucy faintly, "do you think he is?"

"He'd love to throw me to the wolves," said Jack flatly. He paused before adding, "particularly if he found me with his girl."

"Michael isn't like that," she declared vehemently. "As for you being with me, that's utter nonsense. After all, I only saw you once before in my life."

"But how'll you make him believe that? You know how a guy is when another fellow pops up out of his girl's past. Always ready to believe the worst. Why'll he think I came to you if I weren't sure you'd take me in?"

"What's all this getting us?" demanded Lucy wearily. "Tell me about it, Jack. Who shot you in the side? Why are you afraid to be examined by a doctor?"

"A dead man, believe it or not. And I told you why not to call a doctor," Jack snarled. "Because I can't afford to start explaining things to the police. Not yet. Nor to your Mike Shayne either. Get that straight, sister. If he does come and you say a word about me being here, I'll fix you with him so you'll wish you'd kept shut."

"You're hardly in a position to threaten anyone," Lucy told him coldly. She retrieved the empty cognac glass and placed it on the tray, stood up. "Do you want some water?"

"No. More of that brandy would be okay."

"You've had enough," she told him with decision, and started toward the door.

His voice stopped her on the threshold. It was hard and level, yet with an underlying note of desperation which warned her that he was dangerous.

"Just don't do it, Lucy girl. All I'm asking is a couple of hours, and I swear that you'll be doing nothing wrong. But I'm also warning you that Shayne wouldn't see it that way, and if you give me to him I'll smear you so you'll not only be looking for another man but for another job, too. Now close that door and get smart."

Lucy went to the kitchen and carefully rinsed out Jack's liquor glass and dried it. The bedroom door stood open, but she noted that Jack had turned out the bedside lamp.

Biting her lip in indecision, she slowly went to the door and drew it shut, then turned back to drop into a deep chair and wrestle with her problem.

In the beginning, immediately after Jack made his absurd threat, there had been no question in her mind. Michael Shayne was certainly best qualified to decide whether or not to turn Bristow over to the police after questioning him.

Shayne had his own peculiar code of ethics which she sometimes did not wholly understand, but which she respected. Often enough, she had seen him set himself squarely against the police in their efforts to jail a man whom Shayne believed innocent, and many times she had seen him go outside the law to gain an end which he believed right.

If Jack Bristow could convince Shayne that he was innocent in whatever sort of mess, he'd gotten himself mixed into, she knew positively that the big redhead would hold the man's confidence inviolate even though it involved a technical illegality on Shayne's part.

On the other hand, Lucy was in love with her employer. She admitted the fact openly to herself, and more or less openly to him. For years now she had let herself dream of marriage, and had felt encouraged of late by the belief that he was coming to look at Lucy more and more as a woman instead of merely an attractive and competent secretary.

She moodily thought about the wounded man in her bedroom. What sort of jam could he have got into in Miami to bring him to her apartment seeking refuge with a gunshot wound? In the past, when she had known his sister well, she had sensed that Jack was weak and probably lazy, but she could recall no hint from Arlene of vicious or unlawful tendencies.

Of course, she told herself dearly, a sister is likely to be the last person to suspect a brother of such things, and it was perfectly possible that Arlene had been unaware of his real character. Also, it had been many years since Lucy had seen Arlene, and all sorts of things might have happened to Jack in the interim. He might well be a noted criminal, wanted by the police of a dozen states, and Lucy would not be aware of it.

But, somehow, she couldn't make herself believe that. Not of a boy whom she had once dreamed about.

No, Lucy told herself desperately. He can't be really bad. Certainly I would know subconsciously if he were, and would be repelled rather than attracted by him. Whatever trouble he's in, must be the result of a prank or some sort of mistake, and I would be disloyal to Arlene if I refused to protect him for the short time he asked.

On the other hand, his threat to smear her reputation in front of Michael Shayne if she admitted his presence to the detective, rankled, and she conceded in her heart that it was not the act of an innocent lad. Still, it was a threat that had been born of desperation and of his lack of knowledge of

The W. M. U. of the First Baptist church met at the church one afternoon last week for its service. Visiting over the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Jess Yates was their son, Darrell Yates, and family of Edwardsville.

Monday callers at the home of Opal and Darlene Goodson were Sarah Elizabeth Goodson of Rosi-Shayne's real character.

There I go, she muttered to herself despairingly, pretending I know Michael's real character when the fact is that I'm not at all sure how he might react if Jack were to tell him a lot of lies about me. I should be sure that he'd disregard them, but I'm not. I simply don't know. And I'm afraid to put it to the test. On the other hand, I'll hate myself forever if I lie to Michael and let Jack stay hidden in the bedroom without telling him.

Lucy still hadn't made up her mind when the buzzer rang and she got up to push the button that would admit Michael Shayne to the apartment building.
